

Spanish

The Spanish program at Marquette provides students with the opportunity to develop linguistic proficiency in one of the most widely spoken languages in the world while learning about the rich and diverse cultures of Latin America, Spain and the Latino communities in the United States. The goal of the undergraduate program is twofold: to master all four skills of language acquisition (speaking, understanding, reading and writing), and to gain in-depth knowledge of content areas related to language, linguistics, literature, culture and film of the Spanish-speaking world. Majors in Spanish may combine studies with other disciplines in the humanities, social sciences or sciences. Students considering careers in education, international business, medicine, law, government or communications are particularly encouraged to pursue a double major or a minor in Spanish. Two distinct majors are offered: Spanish Language, Literature, and Culture, with special concentrations including one for Education majors; and Spanish for the Professions, with concentrations in either Business or Health. Both majors also offer curricular concentrations designed to meet the needs of heritage and native speakers of Spanish. An accelerated five-year B.A./M.A. degree is also offered in Spanish, affording enhanced concentration on language skills, cultural and literary competency, and critical thinking skills for use in fields such as business, health, and international relations.

Minors may also choose to concentrate on Spanish Language, Literature, and Culture or Spanish for the Professions. The minor consists of six to seven courses (18-22 credit hours), excluding SPAN 1001 Elementary Spanish 1, SPAN 1003 Intensive Elementary Spanish, and SPAN 2001 Intermediate Spanish 1.

The Klingler College of Arts and Sciences also offers an Interdisciplinary Latin American Studies major or minor (<http://bulletin.marquette.edu/undergrad/helenwayklinglercollegeofartsandsciences/interdisciplinarymajmin/latinamericanstudies>) for those students who would like to combine their language skills with other disciplines.

Notes:

- Heritage learners of Spanish are students of Hispanic background who have been educated in the United States and have been exposed to Spanish in their homes or communities from an early age, but who consider English their primary language.
- Native speakers of Spanish have been primarily educated in Spanish and consider Spanish their first language.
- Electives: These are upper-division courses at the 3000 and 4000 levels which were not previously taken to fulfill a requirement. Where there are options listed, if a student wanted to take both instead of choosing only one, such as SPAN 3300 or SPAN 3310, or SPAN 3515 and SPAN 3520, one course could be used to fulfill the requirement and the other course to fulfill an elective.

Spanish B.A./M.A. Accelerated Degree PROGRAM

The Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures offers an accelerated five-year B.A./M.A. degree as well as the traditional two-year master of arts degree program in Spanish. Both programs are designed to provide students with a broad background in Spanish language, literature and culture. The majority of the department's graduates have entered teaching careers, continued on to doctoral studies or secured a position in business, non-profit organizations or government. Students in the program form a small and relatively intimate group. Graduate seminars are kept small, averaging ten students, and students are given individual guidance throughout their course of study.

This five-year program is designed for the student majoring in Spanish who is interested in continuing the study of Spanish language, literature, culture or Spanish for the Professions. The program is conceived for students who are interested in studying an extra fifth year in order to concentrate on their language skills, cultural and literary competency, critical thinking skills, as well as their ability to use Spanish effectively in the fields of business, health, international relations and other professional fields.

Students pursuing the accelerated B.A./M.A. program in Spanish complete the requirements for the major in Spanish Language, Literature and Culture or Spanish for the Professions (30-34 credit hours) in addition to the master of arts degree in Spanish requirements (30 credit hours). Up to four courses (12 credit hours) of course work taken at the graduate level (SPAN 5000/6000) completed during the senior undergraduate year can count toward both the undergraduate and graduate degrees. The student's fifth year consists of the completion of six graduate level courses (18 credit hours) in fulfillment of the remaining master's degree course and area requirements, as well as the master's written and oral comprehensive examinations. Upon completion of the first term as a master's candidate, the student must petition the Graduate School to transfer the SPAN 5000/6000 graduate level courses taken as an undergraduate to the master's degree.

Should a student be denied admission to the master's degree program, the graduate level courses can be counted toward the requirements of the bachelor of arts degree major in Spanish.

PREREQUISITES FOR ADMISSION TO THE SPANISH B.A./M.A. ACCELERATED Degree PROGRAM

Candidates for admission are required to consult with their Spanish academic adviser prior to submitting an application and must notify the Chair of the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures of their intentions.

Candidates should have undergraduate junior status and have completed at least 3 upper division Spanish courses (typically SPAN 3001 Advanced Communication in Spanish or SPAN 3005 Advanced Communication in Spanish for Heritage Speakers; SPAN 3300 Peoples and Cultures of Spain or SPAN 3310 Peoples and Cultures of Latin America; and SPAN 3500 Introduction to Literary Analysis in Spanish or SPAN 3505 Introduction to Literary Analysis in Spanish for Heritage and Native Speakers), and should also have a GPA of at least 3.000 in their Spanish major.

One upper-division Humanities Disciplinary Honors Languages, Literatures and Cultures (CLAS, FREN, GRMN, LATN, SPAN), History, Philosophy or Theology course		3
SPAN 4999H	Honors Senior Thesis	3
Total Credit Hours		12

* The seminar series prepares students to write a Humanities Disciplinary Honors project and helps to mentor them during the writing of the project. While enrolled in HOPR 3954H Developing a Humanities Honors Project and Writing a Research Proposal students also secure individual faculty mentors for their Humanities Disciplinary Honors project.

 The instructor is the student's faculty mentor for their Humanities Disciplinary Honors project.

Notes:

- Two upper-level departmental Humanities Disciplinary Honors courses, one in student's major and one that must be in another humanities department are required. Each must be a 3-credit, graded course and designated as a departmental Honors course. These courses are normally taken during student's junior year. The H courses in the student's major count toward total major credits and toward other major requirements where applicable. The H course in another humanities department does not count toward major requirements.
- A Humanities Disciplinary Honors committee made up of representatives from all five humanities departments regularly decides on a broad theme for Humanities Disciplinary Honors program, to last at least two years, and individual faculty and departments submit courses that fit that theme.
- The Honors Humanities committee designates an appropriate number of Humanities Disciplinary Honors courses (These courses may also be taken by non-Honors students depending on the number of Humanities Disciplinary Honors students in the program).
- Students may take these upper-level departmental Humanities Disciplinary Honors courses concurrently or in different terms; they should have finished at least one before beginning their independent projects.

Academic Standards

Students must have a 3.200 cumulative overall grade point average for entry into the Humanities Disciplinary Honors Program. Students must achieve a 3.200 cumulative grade point average in the above 12 credit hours required in order to graduate with Humanities Disciplinary Honors. Students who complete both Core Honors and Humanities Disciplinary Honors earn a Comprehensive Honors degree. Students must have a 3.200 cumulative GPA to graduate with this degree. Students admitted to Humanities Disciplinary Honors become part of the University Honors Program and are eligible for Honors research fellowships and Honors study-abroad scholarships. If an Honors student drops below a 3.200 in any given term during the junior year or any subsequent year, the student receives a letter of warning from the director. If a student drops below a 3.200 cumulative GPA, they are placed on University Honors Program academic probation; if they do not achieve a 3.200 cumulative GPA by the end of the following term, they are removed from the program. Students must earn a grade of C or better in all courses required for Humanities Disciplinary Honors and the Comprehensive Honors degree.

Eligibility

Humanities Disciplinary Honors is designed to be completed during students' junior and senior years. Sophomores interested in pursuing Humanities Disciplinary Honors should enroll in HOPR 2954H Introduction to Honors in the Humanities during their sophomore year. Sophomores are eligible to apply to the program near the end of the spring term as long as they meet the 3.200 minimum cumulative GPA requirement.

Application

Students apply for admission to the Languages, Literatures and Cultures department. Application materials can be obtained in person from the department office.
