Pre-Law Scholars Program

The Pre-Law Scholars Program is an accelerated program that provides a select group of students with conditional admission to Marquette University Law School. The Pre-Law Scholars Program allows students to reduce from seven years to six years the total time needed to complete the bachelor’s and law degrees. Pre-Law Scholars enroll in the College of Arts and Sciences, College of Business Administration, the College of Communication or the College of Health Sciences and choose from a variety of approved majors while completing the required undergraduate portion of their studies in three years. They are awarded a bachelor’s degree upon successful completion of the first year in Law School. Students may be eligible to be awarded the bachelor’s degree earlier if they complete the minimum course and credit requirements for undergraduate graduation prior to this time.

Direct Freshman Admission to the Pre-Law Scholars Program

The Pre-Law Scholars Selection Committee, comprised of members of the undergraduate colleges and the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, gives primary consideration to high school students who have followed a rigorous college preparatory curriculum and who have demonstrated a potential for success by fulfilling the criteria below:

High school class rank (if available): upper 10 percent

Test Scores: SAT combined score of 1260 or ACT composite score of 28

This application process coincides with the university's other scholarship competition deadlines, which generally fall on or around January 15. Notification of acceptance occurs in early March, thereby allowing students ample time to weigh their options.

Application: Students provide two applications for the program; the Application for Undergraduate Admission and a separate application for the Pre-Law Scholars Program. Download program application (https://www.marquette.edu/explore/scholarships-pre-law.php).

Marquette Continuing Student Admission

There are always great students that do not receive the direct admit offer, students who discover the Pre-Law Scholars Program once they are at Marquette and students who transfer from another college or university. These students can apply and be admitted to the program as space permits.

Qualifications to become a Pre-Law Scholar:

• Have completed at least one term (i.e. at least 12 credits) of course work at Marquette University prior to application to the Pre-Law Scholars Program.

• Have an overall current cumulative GPA of 3.300 or greater. This encompasses all college course work whether taken at Marquette University or another institution. All transfer course work from other institution(s) whether summer sessions, concurrent course work or college credit obtained via dual enrollment program while in high school is included in this calculation. Specific questions regarding this standard should be directed to the Law School Office of Admissions.

• Be on track to complete the Marquette Core Curriculum (MCC) requirements, college curriculum and major requirements, such that no greater than 29 total elective credits remain to complete the undergraduate degree upon law school entry in the fourth year.

Undergraduate Curriculum

A typical bachelor’s degree program in each of these colleges consists of four parts: Marquette Core Curriculum (MCC) requirements, college curriculum requirements, major requirements and electives. In the first three years of the Pre-Law Scholars Program, students complete the Marquette Core Curriculum, college curriculum requirements and major requirements. Courses taken in the fourth year (the first year of law school), count as electives for the bachelor’s degree and toward the completion of the law degree.

Approved Majors

Note: Students who wish to pursue other majors may do so in coordination between their academic advisers and the Law School. Pursuing majors other than those listed above may require summer school coursework to fulfill undergraduate curriculum requirements for law school entry in the fourth year.

Pre-major advisers, the Pre-Law Scholars coordinator and select faculty members are responsible for the academic advising of Pre-Law Scholars.

Note: Students majoring in accounting need to take courses in summer school; also, depending on foreign language placement, international business majors may need to take summer school courses.

The assistant dean of the College of Business Administration is responsible for the academic advising of Pre-Law Scholars.

Note: The minor that is normally required for the degree is waived for Pre-Law Scholars. However, should a student decide to complete their undergraduate degree prior to entering Law School, they are required to complete the minor.

The Pre-Law Scholars coordinator and selected faculty members are responsible for the academic advising of Pre-Law Scholars.

College of Health Sciences: Biomedical Sciences.

Note: Students in the College of Health Sciences may require summer school course work to fulfill undergraduate curriculum requirements for law school entry in the fourth year.

The Pre-Law Scholars coordinator and selected faculty members are responsible for the academic advising of Pre-Law Scholars.

Academic Standards for Pre-Law Scholars

Admission guarantees the scholar a place in Marquette Law School, after completion of the third year of undergraduate studies and by completing the Marquette Core Curriculum (MCC) requirements, the respective undergraduate college curriculum and major requirements, such that no more than 29 total elective credits remain to complete the undergraduate degree.

Students maintain a place in the Law School by fulfilling the following requirements:

- Enroll in the spring term ARSC 1963 First Year Seminar: Lawyers in American Society (1 credit). (Recommended course for direct freshmen Pre-Law Scholars only; available as course space permits to continuing students entering the program.)
- Attain a cumulative 3.300 grade point average or a grade point average that is equal to or greater than the median GPA of the preceding year’s entering class (whichever is lesser) by the time of application/entrance to Marquette Law School. This encompasses all college course work whether taken at Marquette University or another institution. All transfer course work from other institution(s) whether summer sessions, concurrent course work or college credit obtained via a dual enrollment program while in high school is included in this calculation. Specific questions regarding this standard should be directed to the Law School Office of Admissions.
- Earn a score on the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) of 155 or that is equal to or greater than the median score of the preceding year’s entering class at the Law School, whichever is lesser. The LSAT must be taken no later than February of the year that you apply to the Law School. The Law School’s Admissions Committee considers the highest score you receive.
- Meet the Law School’s standards for character and fitness. Behaviors and/or activities that lead to University Probation may result in removal from the program and impact admission to Marquette University Law School. Such activities include, but are not limited to, academic dishonesty or any activity deemed inappropriate, unethical or illegal.
- Be on track to fulfill the Marquette Core Curriculum (MCC) requirements, the respective undergraduate college curriculum and major requirements, such that you have no more than 29 total elective credits remaining to complete your undergraduate degree.

Students who are on track to fulfill the MCC, undergraduate college curriculum and major requirements, and other criteria as listed above, but do not meet the above academic standards for GPA and/or LSAT may elect to apply to the Law School and be considered for early admission as part of the general applicant pool. In such instances, admission to the Law School is not guaranteed. If such students are not admitted to the Law School, they may complete their senior year to fulfill remaining graduation requirements, and they may reapply to the Law School.

While the Law School is bound to hold a place for scholars who meet all requirements, students are not obligated to attend Marquette’s Law School. Students may elect to complete the undergraduate degree in the major(s) chosen. In such a case, the student is guaranteed a place in the Law School entering class, provided the academic standards listed above are met.

Grades/Graduation/Graduation Honors

The undergraduate colleges base their calculations for academic honors on all credits earned toward the bachelor’s degree, including all Law School credits completed through the term in which the students satisfy all undergraduate degree requirements.

The undergraduate colleges accept for credit all Law School classes in which the student earns at least a grade of D, the minimum necessary to earn credit for a course in the Law School. If a student were to earn a grade lower than D in the first year of Law School, that student, in order to earn the bachelor’s degree must make up those credits. This may be done by retaking the Law School course (as required by the Law School), or by taking an undergraduate course that fulfills credit requirements for the undergraduate college.
Normally, Scholars walk through the May graduation ceremony. However, because Law School grades are not posted until June, Pre-Law Scholars do not receive their diploma for their bachelor’s degree until the summer of the fourth year. Students may be eligible to graduate earlier if they complete the minimum course and credit requirements prior to this time.

Financial Aid

Pre-Law Scholars spend only three years as an undergraduate at Marquette. Therefore, the undergraduate financial aid and scholarships received are applicable only to the first three years at Marquette. After completion of the first three years or undergraduate degree, Scholars must apply for financial aid and scholarships as an independent graduate/professional student, via the Law School and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Since the criteria for admission to the Pre-Law Scholars Program match the criteria for many of the merit-based scholarships awarded by the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, it is highly probable that scholars entering Marquette in the program also receive a merit-based scholarship to Marquette University.

It is important to reiterate that these scholarships, while renewable for up to eight semesters at the university, are only for undergraduate study. As a result, Scholars are only able to apply these scholarships to the first three years at Marquette. Once enrolled in Marquette’s Law School, Scholars are no longer considered undergraduates. The fourth year (or earlier, if applicable) of the undergraduate scholarship is forfeited.

Pre-Law Scholars are considered for Law School financial aid and merit-based scholarships that are available to all eligible students entering the first year of Law School. These scholarships are awarded on a rolling basis; as such, early application to the Law School is encouraged. By meeting the academic standards for Pre-Law Scholars detailed above, it is highly probable that scholars entering the Law School will receive a merit-based scholarship to the Law School.
