Social Welfare and Justice

The Social Welfare and Justice major is designed to provide students with the knowledge and experience needed to pursue successful careers in social service, social policy analysis, mediation and intervention and social justice advocacy. Through course work, service learning and internships, students gain understanding of the complexities of a range of social welfare and justice issues and learn the analytic and practical skills needed to develop, evaluate and transform social welfare and justice policies and services. Students gain competency in the roles, ethics and values of the social work profession and in the core issue of global human needs and social development. Graduates have the knowledge base to work with culturally diverse groups and understand how social justice issues affect particular communities in specific ways.

The major is flexible, allowing students to pursue their specific interests as they develop skills in service, advocacy and social change that form them as leaders in generating positive social justice outcomes. The major also prepares students well for graduate study in conflict resolution, education, health care, law, public health, nonprofit management, public policy analysis, social service administration, social work and student affairs.

Students may be able to apply some SOWJ course credits toward a Master's in Social Work degree.

Note:

• SOWJ 4986 Advanced Internship in Social Welfare and Justice may be counted toward the SOWJ major, but not the SOWJ minor.

Total Credit Hours: 9-10

1  Elective options include all SOWJ courses, listed ANTH, CRLS and SOCI courses, and special topics courses approved by the department chair.

2  Students who obtain either a 4 or 5 on the Statistics AP exam should seek credit for MATH 1700 Modern Elementary Statistics which can then count as the substitution for SOCI 2060 Social Statistics.

Notes:

• Students also majoring in psychology may complete PSYC 2050 Research Methods and Designs in Psychology in place of SOCI 3050 Methods of Social Research or CRLS 3050 Methods of Criminological Research.

• Students wishing to complete double majors in SOWJ and ANTH, CRLS or SOCI must complete the requirements for both majors. Two courses that are accepted by both majors (see the list of approved courses within each major's bulletin entry) may double count for both majors, for a total of 54-57 credit hours.
